"ANTIQUITAS" is a journal with a reading committee and a scientific committee. It is annual and appears in June of each year. To be admissible by the management of the journal, the manuscripts or articles must comply with the CAMES-CTS LSH standards adopted during the 38th session of the CCIs from July 11 to 20, 2016 in Bamako.

The quoted passages are presented in roman and in quotation marks. When the quoting sentence and the quotation exceed three lines, you should break the line, to present the quotation (leading 1) in roman and indented, decreasing the font size by one point. Citation references are incorporated into the citing text, as appropriate, in the following ways:

- (Initial (s) of First Name or First Names and Author, year of publication, pages cited);
- Initial (s) of the First Name (s) and of the Author (year of publication, pages cited). Examples:
  - In fact, the goal pursued by M. Ascher (1998, p. 223) is “to broaden the history of mathematics in such a way that it acquires a multicultural and global perspective (…), to increase the field mathematics: while it mainly took care of the Western professional group called mathematicians (…)”
  - To say more fully what this capacity of civil society, which in its effective deployment, attests that it can carry development and history, S. B. Diagne (1991, p. 2) writes:
    Make no mistake: in any case, the populations have always known how to oppose the management philosophy and its voluntarism their own workaround strategies. These, for example, are readable in the dynamism, or at the very least, in the creativity of which knows proof of what is referred to as the informal sector and to whom it should be called positive popular economy.
  - The Ivorian philosopher is right, to a certain extent, to read, in this destabilizing shock, the process of underdevelopment. As he says:
    The process of underdevelopment resulting from this shock is experienced concretely by the populations affected as a global crisis: socio-economic crisis (exploitation brutal, permanent unemployment, accelerated and painful exodus), but also a socio-cultural crisis and civilization reflecting a socio-historical lack of preparation and an inadequacy of cultures and from human behavior to life forms imposed by foreign technologies. (S. Diakité, 1985, p. 105).

Historical sources, oral information references and explanatory notes are numbered in a continuous series and presented at the bottom of the page. The various elements of a bibliographic reference are presented as follows:

LAST NAME and First name (s) of the author, Year of publication, Title zone, Place of publication, Publisher zone, the pages (p.) Of articles for a journal.
In the title zone, the title of an article is presented in roman and between quotation marks, that of a book, a dissertation or a thesis, a report, a review or a journal is presented in italics. In the Publisher zone, we indicate the Publishing House (for a work), the Name and the number / volume of the journal (for an article). In the event that a work is a translation and / or a re-edition, the name of the translator and / or the edition must be specified after the title (eg: 2nd ed.). Bibliographic references are presented in alphabetical order of author's name. For example:

Bibliography

For online work, add the email address (URL)

In-text submissions will be made in footnotes. Footnotes will be in continuous numbering.

Illustrations (tables, charts, diagrams, maps, photos) should be numbered (continuous numbering) in Arabic numerals according to the order in which they appear in the text. They should have a concise title, placed above the illustrative element (centered). The source is indicated (centered) below the element (Size 10). It is important that these illustrative elements are first announced, then inserted, and finally commented on in the body of the text.

Failure to adhere to editorial standards may result in rejection of a draft article.

Writing